

Dr. Michelle Taylor, DVM – Chief Shelter Veterinarian

Michelle Taylor, DVM, attained both her Bachelor of Science in Animal Science and Industry and her Doctorate in Veterinary Medicine from Kansas State University. From Olathe, Kansas, her passion for animal welfare began when she was 13 and started volunteering for local Kansas City area rescue groups. Since earning her DVM in 2005, she has dedicated her professional career to working in animal welfare.

Dr. Taylor currently leads the Shelter Medical team as Chief Veterinarian. She recently became Fear Free Certified, a certification based on preparing animal welfare employees on emotional needs of animals to improve their experiences in shelters. Dr. Taylor resides in Olathe with a plethora of critters, including dogs, cats and fish.
